

College Interns Work with CHES

One of the great features of the college are abundant opportunities to be mentored in education. Saturday CHES held an appreciation banquet for the Enrichment Academy. Eight of those present faculty at the banquet are Chambers college graduates or enrolled in the College.

Prayer Seminar a Success

Teri Ong offered a prayer seminar entitled prayer therapy, Her book is now available.

The seminar actually includes extensive times of prayer as well as giving practical helps for praying for difficult situations.

The book, Prayer Therapy should be available December 13.

Internship at the State Capitol

We do have a student working, Matthew Aden interning at the state capitol. If you are interested in this opportunity contact us to see if this opportunity will service you well. Two of our early interns are now practicing attorneys, Brandon Stallings who received his training from Oakbrook School of law and Anthony Gallegos who recently passed the bar. They were also on the debate team.

Matthew Aden, freshman has been working under Senator Lundberg and will be returning to work for him while continuing his studies at Chambers College

London Trip

Although we are a year out It looks like we will have a good group. We have Seven with strong interest. Let us know if you have desires to join us. We are booking rooms already.

Christmas Eve Service

You are invite to attend our relaxing traditional Carol Service with a program of Bible readings and traditional Christmas Carols. Abandoned to God will be presenting some selections.

The service is at Reformation Baptist Church at 6:00 p.m. Saturday Christmas Eve.

Chambers College Press

We have our website back up and going and are now working on producing 5 new books. www.ChambersPress.com

Christmas Caroling after Classes

Finals were done and papers were all turned in, mostly. What better way to celebrate than to go out and minister to the neighbors.

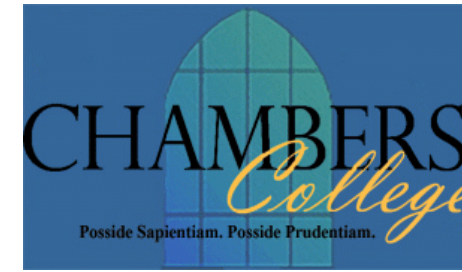

After a 3:30 high tea at manse with Mrs. Ong serving up some of the best sandwiches, biscuits and Fortnum & Mason tea. The students sang to the neighbors around the college.

Next Semester's Class Offerings

www.chamberscollege.com.

Mrs. Ong's philology course is promising to be interesting. It will give a great background on the history of communication through words.

Craig Schmidt's Great Christian Communicators course has been one of the students favorites. He perfectly blends the Biblical basis of communications with

CHAMBERS COLLEGE UPDATE December 2011

Abandoned to God Ensemble is on Tour

It is has been a while since we have had a touring touring musical group. The Abandoned to God group is now available to come minister in your church. They have recently presented in a couple of churches. Contact us if you would like to have the group present to your church or group.

Two alums from Chambers enjoy the Abandoned to God concert

The music style is sacred and classical. Churches have really enjoyed their presentations and testimonies.

The Formal

Dinner & Table Talk

This semester's formal dinner included some family guests. The President's table talk was about Charles Spurgeon's Pastor's Bible College. The Ongs discovered an out of print book on Charles Spurgeon entitled Reminiscences that has insights on Spurgeon's life and college that gives a new dimension to him as a person. The book gives so much more insight that Chambers College Press is going to reprint the book.

Library Trip

This years college trip to the libraries to do research was an enjoyable trek. The students got into the hunt and were on the research trail. They were preparing for their major papers.

Chambers college students write many papers. The small class size helps us to keep up the personal attention and inter action with the students.

